BLACKFORD HIGH SCHOOL HARTFORD CITY, INDIANA

Published by Blackford Department of Publications 'Come, my friends ...

Tis not too late ... TO SEEE

The flight of Apollo 11 set the stage for the first year of BHS; for as the astronauts took the first step in the exploration of new worlds in space, so we discovered a new world of our own at BHS.

As all pioneers do, we met challenges both in and out of class. Stimulated by a better environment, we supplemented our regular curriculum with use of new equipment and independent study. We built clubs, organizations and a student government from scratch. New playing fields gave our athletes added incentive to look their best. The biggest challenge of all was met when our circle of friends doubled in size, as ancient prejudices dissolved and old loyalties awitched allegiance.

Being explorers in our own right, we set precedents and made traditions. Together, we entered BHS on that first day of school; together, we created the beginnings of a school spirit.

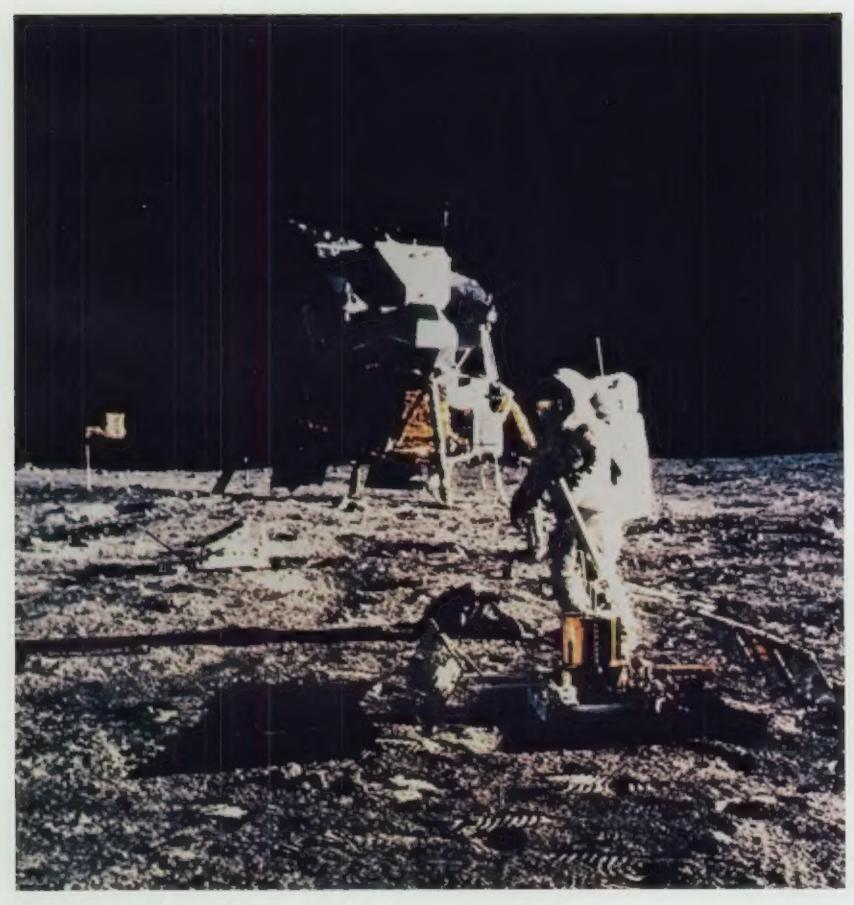

A line of buses disgorged a horde of students who undauntedly entered BHS for the first time. Inside, many surprises awaited them—and better education.

"BHS is second to none," Chuck Moore tells John Gross. There was no credibility gap in recognizing this fact. All students were injected by the beginnings of a school spirit.

A NEWER WORLD ...

Planting the American flag on the moon symbolized a sictory for both the astronauts and the arm-chair adventurers. It also began a new age of exploration,

Getting accustomed to BHS was even more of a challenge than usual to Judy Beatrice, who shows Diane Marshall and Valli Pethtel the location of her former home in Hawaii.

A sunrise and a fluttering flag heralded the dawn of a new era in Blackford County, as a new high school began its history. Older citizens as well as the students were proud.

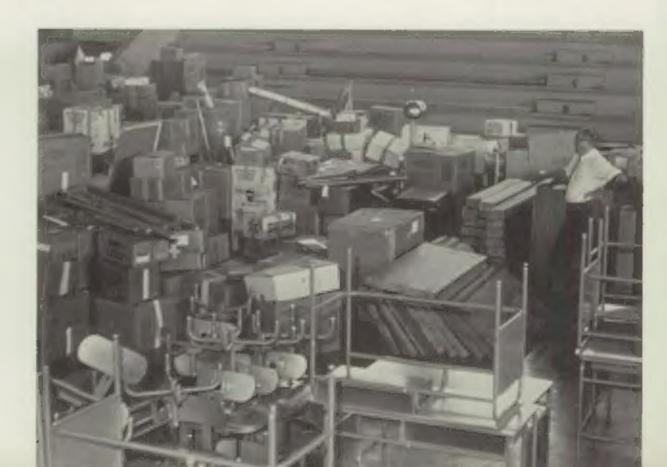

Working on construction in August sun may not be the most desirable way to get a tan, but the labor paid off when the stadium was ready for the first game

Keeping the communications channel open between administrators and contractors, Dr. Emhuff and Mr. Lewis examine blueprints with Mr. Koshert, construction superintendent.

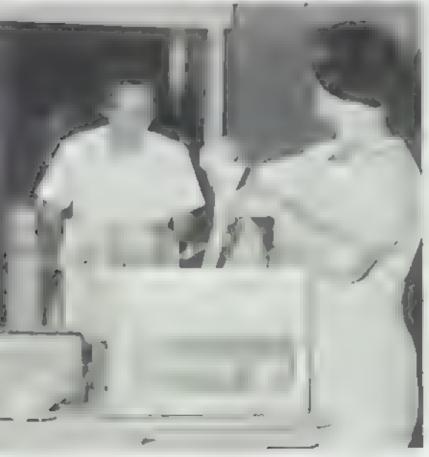

Tons of equipment that had to be stored in the old Hartford City gym pose a problem for Mr. Carbone.

Labor brought us our newer world

To meet the challenge of an ever more complex and sophisticated society, school administrators built a "world of learning" in Blackford County. Out of a mountain of bricks, mortar, wires and confusion. a structure which housed 1150 county students became a reality after three years of planning.

"Rush" was the keyword during those weeks before school opened. Besides the anxieties of meeting the construction deadline, there was the continuous list of equipment to be processed.

Finally, after a week's delay, the doors swung open September 15 for that mem orable first day. Students and teachers alike discovered and were delighted by a sparkling new "educational world" whose scope and beauty they are only now fully realizing

Many students helped move furniture out to the new building; these boys hastened the moving process by sanding old desks and removing unceent wods of gum.

Left: Miss Mecklenburg and Mrs. Sanders use any box they can find to transport books.

Extra large study halls made seating charts a necessity is Mr Reige disstrates assigning students to their permanent seats in a cafe teria study hall

Workm n were an accepted part of BHS shot life at the first of the year. Classes quelly old, tra to the situation houseser and bound to appose their presence

Cetting up a little earlier seems t be a problem for Koth Capacian Because of the rural location of the school, most students depended on buses for transportation

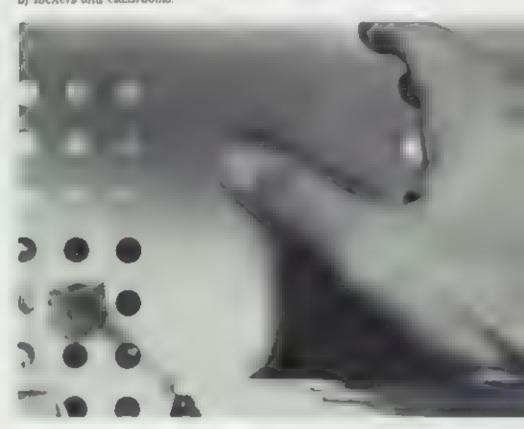

Building maps were mailed to all students before school started. Freshmen and upperclassmen alike kept their maps handy the first day, as Mark Baughey and Jeff Champ did.

Visitors to BHS are not unusual, but this furry fellow seems less than welcome. As cool weather set in, mice became common residents of lockers and classrooms.

We adjusted to our world

What's the prescription for adjusting to a new school a new student body, and a new name? Blackford students found one and in a hurry. The formula: 'Ke-p your cool'"

During that first month students patiently memorized landmarks to find their classrooms. They adjusted to chairs in one class, stools in another, tables in a third—and overstuffed (ah-h-h!) furniture in the library. They nonchalantly side-stepped boxes piled high in halls and waited patiently in cafeteria lines that first week. Also, many who had never before ridden school buses learned that buses don't want

But by the end of six weeks, a collection of half-scared students had become a school and the word Bruin meant much more than a synonym for bear

It was a stunning, stimulating world

The work, the wait, and all the effort of eight years was worthwhile. Students and teachers alike were pleasantly surprised at the beauty, the convenience, and the spaciousness of their new school home. The 1150 students caught their breath at the thrill of that first day. At last it was all a reality, and the community, too, was proud of the showplace of Blackford County—Blackford High School.

With room for 4,000 Blackford fans, the huge stadium was a welcome surprise at that opening Alexandria game.

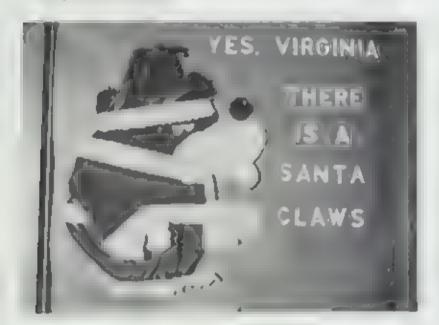

Extensive halls lined with inset lockers became the beaten path of students in the maze of thorough/ares.

Lest: Specialization features in both furnishings and design marked many classrooms such as (from top) those for Band, Art, Drafting and Science.

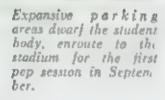

Bulletin boards galore adorned the walls throughout the build ing, designed to fit current topics studied or to match the season, as this one does

Fifty-five TV sets in classrooms gave students both taped and live programs

To feed almost all students and teachers daily, an attractive cafeteria and fully equipped kitchen as tracted diners

In class, we did our thing

"I dig the new library" was a familiar statement at BHS this year. Besides the spacious, comfortable library, students benefited from a variety of new modern learning aids in literally every department.

These aids to better learning included video-tape television in every room, computerized typesetting machinery in the Journalism Department, analytical machinery in the Science Department, and a trampoline in the Physical Education Department

With these and other advanced aids, along with good instruction. BHS managed to achieve top scholarship in its very first year

Summer was fun, work

Workshops, European tours, church and band camps, and tennis team practice—these were just a small part of the ways to summer fun and information enjoyed by Blackford's scattered youth during the summer of '69.

Three students took European tours-Nancy Koons, Helen Vandelene and Melinda Dudgeon. Several studied in college workshops to become more proficient in journalism, drama, science, English, music and cheerleading

Girls' and Boys' States were attended by Diana Herr, Susan Fread, Debbie Schuller, Allen Archer, Max Bennett Tex Johnson and Bob Crankshaw.

But even with all the workshops and other activities, many students found time for simple, everyday leisure

The summer was a time to expand experience and to prepare for a new, un known life in a new educational world called Blackford High School.

During her European trip, Nancy Koons lived with a French Jamily in Arlay

Sectional basketball champs, the Indiana DECA Sweetheart and the State Broadcasting champion could be seen roaming the halls of BHS in '69-70.

A total of 28 shiny metal statues—BHS's first-year trophies—graced the shelves of the display case. Fourteen trophies represented achievements by members of speech and drama groups. Ten awards were won by Distributive Education competitors, two by the Band and two for basketball. The BruIN former, the school newspaper, was awarded a plaque for a first-class rating for the first semester. In addition, a mass of minor individual awards were wen

Rural dwellers had responsibilities on their family farms. Other home responsibilities included babysitting, house work and pet care

"Book learning" was only one facet of a BHS'er's education, as outside school activities offered another dimension to student life.

They left with honor

Some turned their '69-70 worlds over to successors at the end of the year, as they became the first graduating class of BHS. Some 210 semors, clad in scarlet robes and red, white and black tassels, ended their high school careers in a combination bacealaur to ommence out ceremony. The program featured a sermonette by Father Keith Hosey and addresses by Steve Morris, valedictorian, and Mark Springer, salutatorian.

Local scholarships, sports trophies, and other awards were presented to seniors and underclassmen in separate ceremonies. Blackford's first principal, Dr. Embuff, ended his world here to begin a not here at Indiana State University.

A new school increased their duties

Throughout the school war, three county educational executives were frequent visitors to the new school, checking on such things as equipment ranging from journalism to cafeteria materials on construction, which mainly included the completion of the gym for the January 16 basketball game; and personnel, including 68 teachers, 20 of them new to the county system.

Besides his complex duties of managing county schools, Dr. Conrad Gallo way, superintendent, was also executive seem tary of the school board.

Mr. Payne, assistant superintendent for business affairs, was in charge of non-professional personnel and business management procedures. Dr. Glenn was assistant superintendent for board instruction and in charge of curriculum and professional personne.

Besides planning and managing school procedures, with meetings every two weeks, a busy schedule was followed by the Blackford County School Board.

Mr. Rinker led the school heard as president, with Dr. Barabe acting as vice president. Mr. Pierson and Mr. Suite were secretary and assistant secretary, respectively, and Mr. Daily was treasurer.

Supervision and leadership were essential to BHS in this, the first year of its existence. Delays in construction caused the opening of school to be post poned. During this time Dr. Embuff presided over a series of teachers' meetings designed to familiarize the teachers with the school. When school did open, many facilities were still incomplete. This meant extra adjustment work for Dr. Embuff and Mr. Lewis. Throughout the year they performed not only the normal duties but also those extra ones caused by the new school's problems.

Mr. Carbone, the athletic director, in addition to his normal duties we appointed secretary for the CIC. He also did much work in organizing the Sectional Basketball Tournament, held here All of these men have helped to begin a new tradition at BHS

In every high school there must be people behind the scenes to insure its success. BHS was no exception. Miss Mecklenburg and Mr. Ross, the deans, made school routine orderly. They also supervised attendance records and hosted visitors touring the school.

Mrs. Cortwright, the registrar, recorded grades for permanent records and made general references. She was also Dr. Emhuff's secretary.

Other secretarial duties included the operation of the bookstore and the audio-visual office where films and equipment are kept, and the supervision of the well-stocked library. The deans and secretaries gave essential service.

Some students found their careers in the Guidance Department this year. A variety of new equipment helped in the process. For example, a sound film-strip projector was used frequently by students in search of a college career. Earphones made it possible to listen privately to a variety of vocational information

Other rewarding features were the Admissions Search Kit, which supplied onepage information on colleges throughout the 50 states, and a copying machine which enabled the student to duplicate rapidly the information for his own convenience.

Another responsibility of the Guidance Department was to record each six weeks honor roll, although students themselves were responsible for turning in their cards.

A record player and tape recorder were used extensively in Music History Class, and a tape recorder was also used by the two concert bands. A video tape player recorded the Bruin marching band during football season.

Math had new slant in courses

Keeping pace with the times, Black ford's math classes studied the possibility of altering the program to meet the changing needs of the world

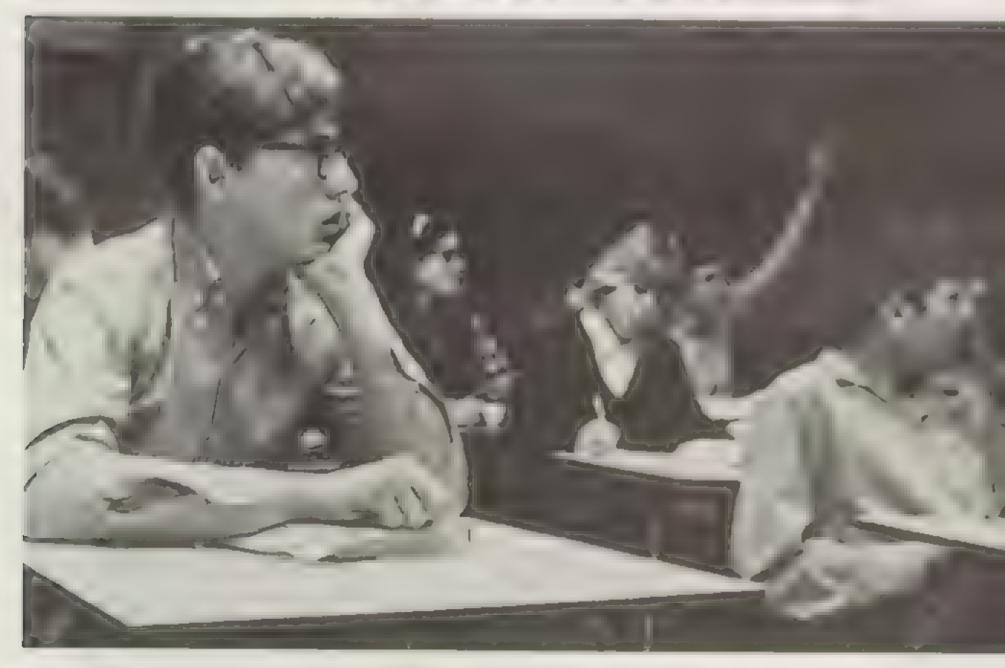

Practical application was the aim of slightly changed senior math. Solid goometry, a brief introduction to calculus probability and statistics, theory of equation and nine weeks of analytical geometry confronted seniors during the second semester. The first semester deals chiefly with trigonometry

Computer math was added to fresh man algebra, covered in the modern new texts.

Changing classes during the day may have been the same consistent routine for some, but for those passing by the Home Ec Department, the alluring aroma of freshly baked pastries lifted the noses of many.

New kitchen equipment was not only advantageous but also a luxury in that students were able to relax in a colorful living-dining social area. The latest of equipment included individual sewing areas with machines, ironing equipment and a dishwasher. A grooming area and fitting room were also available.

Under Mrs. Kersbner, Home Ec Department chairman, the department also was successful in adding an interior decoration and boys' foods class.

In speech, students express themselves before an audience with less "stage fright." Pam Broom gives a time-limited demonstration while Mr. Robbin evaluates

Students were made reading conscious this year, as English students were assigned to the new developmental reading labs to manipulate a variety of machines designed to increase reading skills

Under the direction of Mrs. Ann Kerr, chairman of the Language Arts Department all English teachers guided their students through the intricacies of speed-regulated reading machines and exposed them to taped, programmed in structions to develop other lar guage arts skills

English teachers planned specific courses of study, including linguistics, to obtain uniformity throughout the department in methods and content of courses

Modern publications equipment under the direction of Mr. Henderson, was used in journalism

A literary magazine was also planned by the department

New machines enlarged curriculum

Drafting machines along with complete offset printing equipment and an lectronic wood welder were among extensive new machinery used by the four industrial arts teachers in their classes. The drafting machines replaced the older T-squares and triangles used in mechanical design. The new electronic welder dried glue in seconds that former ly required hours. Printing equipment opened a new area in graphic arts.

Although use of industrial arts rooms was delayed by slowed construction, eventually metal shop students used then new horizontal milling machine, new metal cutting facilities and a new lathe for handling larger stock

Almost all equipment in the wood shop was new, including three sanders, one of which was a drum sander

Besides the new equipment this year, for the first time in Blackford County, offset printing and photography were offered in industrial arts

Honor Society

Books offset brains, budget

Books and brains go together, according to Honor Society philosophy. So, a bookstore of used volumes was sponsored by the Blackford Chapter.

The innovation was organized on the consignment basis in which students and teachers brought in their used books which were in turn sold to the student body at reduced prices. The retail store was open during most periods of the day with members woking during their study hall periods

A new system, devised last year, was used for determining initiates. The 19 members sent names of their choices to Mrs. Ann Kerr and Mrs. Ruth Hen derson, co-sponsors, who made the final evaluations with the help of several administrators: Dr. John Emhuff, Mr. James Landis, and Mr. Kenneth Ross Candidates that met the standards of the society were then formally initiated into the group. The system was used for the first time in selecting ten seniors for initiation

Speech, Dramatics

Trophies became a habit

Cans! Cans! Cans! This was the constant cry of Masque and Gavel members during the Christmas season. Fifteen needy families in Blackford County were given over 4,000 cans of food through the efforts of class competition and the production of "The Bishop's Candlesticks."

"Who was" were the only words spoken by Helen Keller, played by sophomore Linda Herr, in the school production of The Miracle Worker Conchra Worster portrayed the role of Anne Sullivan in the long Helen the fundamentals of communication through discipline. Linda received the BHS "oscar" for best actress and Coolin won the supporting honor. Bruce Wise was best technical worker.

Five team trophies were won through speech and debate work. Getting up at 1 30 a.m. on Saturdays is absurd to most students, but not to the 37 speakers and debaters. Winning second overall at the Indiana High School Forense League Sectional was the highlight of the year. Keith Lanham earned the top speaker award

Future Teachers

Pros' gave their ideas

Future Teachers showed their confidence in adult instructors by inviting them to speak individually and in groups to help teacher-hopefuls make the Big Decision.

Supt. Galloway lectured at installation ceremonies. A grade school principal and a variety of instructors continued the series. Then members, parents, teachers and career associates Exploratory Teachers—heard more teachers discuss their profession at a carry-in dinner celebrating Teaching Career Month.

Also during the special month, FTA surprised BHS teachers with carnation boutonnieres to wear as one-day "medals"

8 prepared for office positions

Have you ever met that certain person who constantly has money in his pocket? If so, it may have been one of those hardworking COE'ers

Eight seniors part ated in the Cooperative Office Education program which prepared them for initial employment in business and office occupations through class instruction and on-the-job training. The students work regularly a minimum of 15 hours a week

The COE Club was an extracurricular activity for those students in the program who were forced to miss participation in other activities because of their jobs. These energetic students attended to see in the morning and departed for their respective stations in the afternoon.

Mr. Thomas Hale, sponsor, and three members attended the State Cooperative I lucation Association meeting at New Haven High School, Oct. 15. Those attending learned more about their state affiliation.

Many participants in the program continued their work throughout the summer months.

If you want to sell something, just ask Distributive Education students how It's their specialty. They not only study it, but they also practice it on a half-day basis. Contests, surveys, an employer employee banquet, initiation and in stallation ceremony, Christmas party and somer picnic were among DE highlights

DE students broadened their scope by being active in regional and district work. Mrs. Evelyn Lobsiger and some members attended the regional conference where ten Blackford students tested their skills against other DE participants

Thirty-four students participated in programs to develop future leaders for marketing and distribution. Seniors were on the job daily for half a day while juniors studied techniques in the classroom

Go power fired girls with spirit

By the use of spirit juga and neverending chants. Pep Club, led by the cheerleaders, generated "Bruin Spirit" throughout the entire student body.

Many of the 130-member club spread their spirit by volunteering to put bulletin boards up in strategic areas of the school. This method of gaining enthusiasm was especially effective during sectional and regional tourney weeks.

The attire of the group was longsleeve white blouses with red sweater vests. They were worn at every home game and most away games.

The vell 'Bruins have go Power" was the constant chant of Mrs. Mary Knote and Mrs. Claudia Goodnight, o sponsors,

The girls gave their vocal cords a rest when they sponsored two after-the-game dances. Proceeds went to pay for the new sweater vests.

Cirls' Athletic Association

Bruinettes ended 7-0

Almost everyone was a winner in sports last year, including the Girls' Athletic Association.

The basketball team was a highlight for both the girls and fans. The varsity had a record of 7-0 in inter-school play, while the B-team had a 1-3 mark

Gymnastics were new and energetic activities in GAA. The trampoline and mini-tramp were the girls' favorites, but the balance beam and bars also got a workout. In March the district meet was held at BHS with three local girls participating.

The district volleyball tournament was captured by the eight-girl squad from Blackford. The girls celebrated by carrying Miss Peckinpaugh, coach, off the floor.

A total of 75 girls also bowled intramurally.

They won a 'first'

Reflections

Night-owls met deadline dates

"Brute the Bruin" was not left out in the cold without a coat last winter. thanks to the yearbook subscription drive. Of 44 "Bruins" on display, many finally boasted full-length attire on the graph, as more than 900 subscriptions were sold

A modern photography lab was also used in processing thousands of pictures taken by staff shutterbugs. New equipment permitted staff members to set type for headlines and index

Advertising was added to the book, because income previously available was cut off

In order to meet deadlines for the biggest Blackford County yearbook ever, the staff and adviser, Mr. Henderson, worked many evenings so the book would be distributed on time.

Band members formed mold for future

Camping, coordination, and concerts were ingredients that made the BHS bands successful from the first football game on.

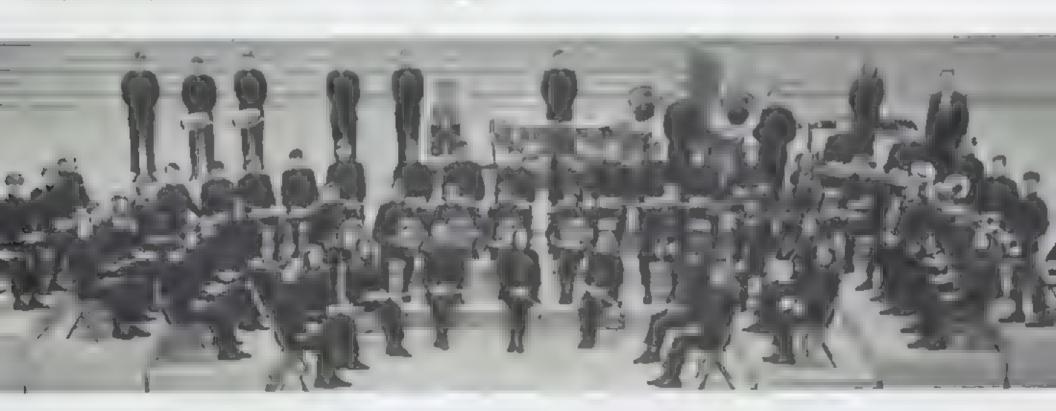

Director William Fread built two performing band groups. The 86-piece Symphonic and 67 piece Concert bands combined in the fall to compose the 153piece Bruin Marching Band. The two bands performed separately on the same concert programs

The Marching Band won first division rating in the state marching contest. Some first divisions were also won in the State Solo and Ensemble contest Twenty-three band units won first division in the district event earlier.

In the regular state centest, the Symphonic Band was awarded a perfect "first" and the concert group won a "second division" (excellent) rating

Contain to appearance of the bH's Band included the American Legion Day parade, where a trophy was won, and the Hartford City Christmas parade

The funds for the 31 senior band members was a concert at which they presented an engraved plaque to Mr. Freed

It was a year of competition

There was a group for every taste

The contest jitters were a new experience for the three BHS choirs and their director, Mr. Philip Turley. With this first endeavor of a county choir in contest in many years, the Choraleers were awarded a "First Division," and the Chorale and Concert Choir received "Seconds" in both performing their three selections and in sight-reading.

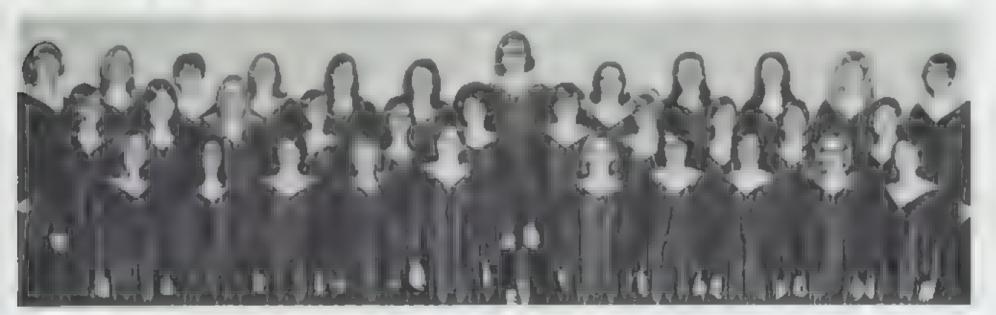

Three concerts were presented throughout the year by the three organizations, with the finale being a music festival in which all the county's choirs (300 students) participated

In the spring the Chorale toured for a day, when it brightened the day of Richmond State Hospital patients and the Warren Home residents

The Swing Choir, Bruinettes, and the Boys' Ensemble were co-curricular activities for many of the singers. These groups performed throughout the community at various social gatherings. The Swing Choir and Bruinettes received first division ratings at the district solo and ensemble contest which enabled both groups to enter the State Contest There the Swing Choir received a first and the Bruinettes a second.

The club also had a Valentine party, conducted a Saturnalia Festival, and had a guest speaker who talked about exchange students

Latin Club - main objective for this vial was to add more audio-visual materials to the Latin file

Questionnaires were drawn up by Mr Leech and the officers, and were filled out by all students taking Latin. The purpose of the questionnaires was to de termine in what direction the club will move in the future

The club's 55 members and sponsor, Mr. John Leech, are affiliated with the Junior Indiana Classical League

Requirements of the Latin Club were to be enrolled in Latin or have completed all offered Latin courses and pay dues to the club. Meetings were conducted on the second Monday of each month in the cafeteria.

Corn profit totaled $385 in fall sale

Science Club popped off to a great start by selling $385 worth of their dynamic popcorn in November. Groups went in several cars canvassing each town and the countryside. Steve Morris, Lynn Hale, Ralph Monfort, and Steve Armstrong were top salesmen by virtue of selling over 50 bags.

Str. to y was on the agenda in March when Spence Club sponsored a chess tournament. Both amateurs and professionals in BHS were urged to participate in this test of the human mind.

A variety of meetings was held throughout the year. Science professors from various colleges and universities throughout Indiana spoke to the club on such controversial subjects as ESP Steve Morris was program chairman.

Water pollution, air pollution, and starvation in the world are a concern to everyone, but in particular to the American farmer. The BHS chapter of Future Farmers of America sought answers to these conflicts and many others through classroom study, crop and soil research, and livestock judging contests.

Four FFA boys and Mr Kenneth Baker, sponsor, kicked-off the 1969-70 judging year by placing 10th in a soil contest at Economy last fall. Livestock and crop contests were also held throughout the year

Facts and fun mixed with foods

The homemaker of today is not all work and no play, as proved by the Future Homemakers of America in BHS as they combined social events with learning.

For example, a "computer dance" was sponsored by FHA in which the entire student body participated. "Daddy Date Night" and a program presented by Nancy Koons on her European travels were other social highlights.

In more serious properts, the or ganization found the meaning of Christmas by collecting and sending gifts to the state mental hospital

The FHA of Southern Wells and the BHS chapter combined their forces on occasion this past year. In the fall they traveled to the district FHA convention at Dekaib High School, Later in the year the Blackford chapter invited Southern Wells FHA'ers to a program on the "Wandering Wheels."

Initial football squad started BHS

Though plagued with injuries the entire season. BHS's first Bruin football team proved to the football world that it was no pushover by racking up a 7.2.1 season and a 3-2-1 CIC slate

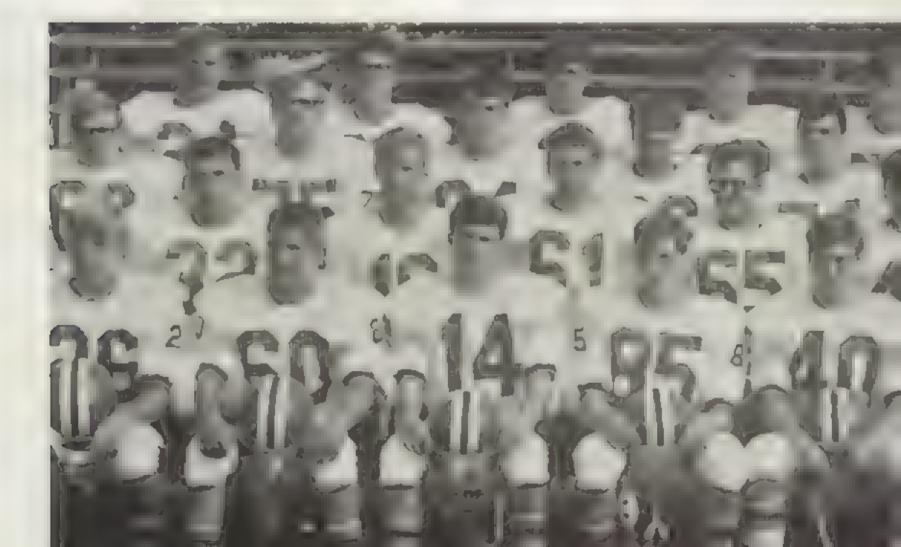

The Bruins began their career by downing two respectable CIC foes—Alexandria, 86, and Elwood, 22-20 before being upset by Tipton 17-6. The Bruins bounced right back in the next game by stumping Mississinewa 41-12 but were again beaten, this time by high ranking Peru. Striving to improve their record in the following game, BHS battled Wabash to an 18-18 draw and then went on a winning rampage by downing Hunti gton 22-13, Yorktown 58-0. Portland 20-0, and, in the final game, Blufton, 62 8

For their individual efforts, four Bruin gridders were honored by the CIC. Larry Ritenour and Jerry Brown were selected to the first team, Barry Markin to the second team, and Dick Cook received honorable mention

JVs won 4 of 6 in successful year

The Bruin JVs put in a winning 1-2 season under the supervision of Coaches Bob Bridge, Don Clark, and Jack Kovell

In the opener, delayed by two can cellations, the Cubs outrushed Portland 213-60 yards for their first win, 208. Next in line was Delta, who upset the Cubs by squeaking through with an 8-6 win. The Cubs then skunked three successive teams—South Adams 6-0, Mississinewa 38-0, and Bluffton 280, before being stopped in their final game by Muncie South, who won the 20-14 decision in the final seconds of the contest.

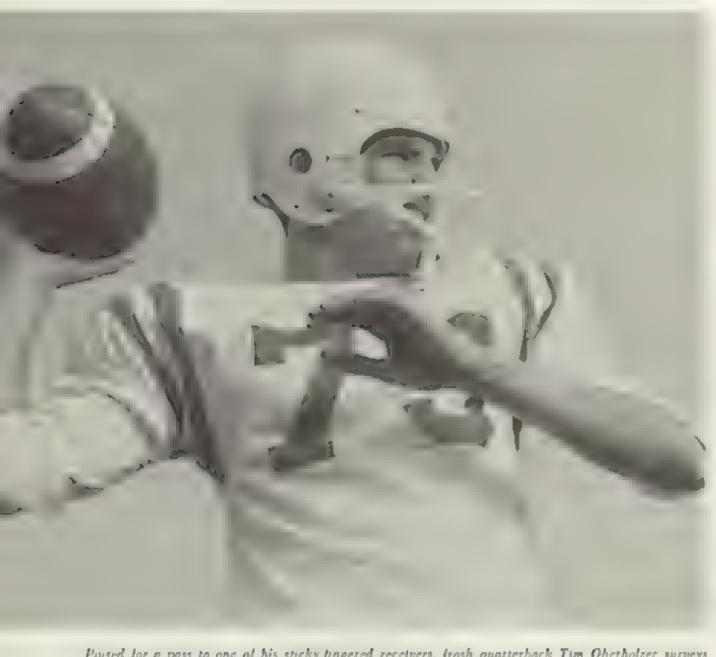

Dave McVicker was the leading scorer with eight touchdowns and an extra point run for an impressive total of 50 points. Next honors went to Rick Freeman with 22 total points, then Ed Cook with 14 tallies.

Cubs posted 15-5 record in first year

The BHS Cubs under the supervision of Coach Crain proved that a strong bench plus a little bit of guts is the key to success, as they won 15 of 20 games and were consolation victors in the Wes Del Tourney.

The JVs went into the tourney with a 5-3 record and picked Delta for their first game. This proved disastrous, as Delta defeated them, 53-45, despite a last quarter Cub rally. The JVs didn't give up but came back to beat York town in the consolation game 53-47 in an overtime After the tourney, the Cubs turned in an impressive 0.1 record

Coach Rickel's Freshman teams proved themselves to be true Bruins as the "A" team won 10 out of 14 games and the "B" squad nabbed 10 out of 12, losa g only two—each by one point.

In addition to the rithe states, the Frosh also added the first BHS trophy as they defeated Delta in the initial game of the Wes Del Tournament by a decisive margin of 54-37 and then clobbered Wes Del in the finals, 53-33

Tim Oberholzer was the spark for hiteam as he scored 231 points in 12 games for a fine 191/4 average. Next high scorer was Dave Bergdoll with 119 total points.

Initial wrestling team victors in S

Blackford County's first wrestling team—ever—came into existence this year. Coach Stephen Jeffrey introduced the sport in the fall and was greeted by a large number of interested boys. The crowd thinned, however, after the first few practices, leaving just 16 boys.

Starting rather late, the team had a rough time drumming up opponents but succeeded in scheduling seven varsity dual meets, a tourney, the sectional, and a JV dual meet.

During the regular season, wins came at the expense of Wabash, whom the squad defeated twice, 36-16 and 38-15, and Winchester, 40-17. Defeats were dished out by Winchester, 45-13, the Tipton Jay Vees, 45-6, Norwell, 52-0, and Eastbrook, 39-11. In the CIC meet the team ended in seventh place and finished down the list in the sectional.

Taking the offensive is Carl Wilcoxon, 123 pounds, who picks an arm in an attempt to "thread the needle" and break his man down while the official awaits the outcome.

Awaiting the sound of the referee's whistle and the slap of the mat is Jack Abbatt, who at 115 pounds works hard for the pin and five team points during the Winchester meet

Bruin netmen played double schedule

An inexperienced Bruin tennis team, under the coaching of Mr. Jerry Shreves, turned in a losing slate this season, but will lose only two varsity members via graduation.

The tennis team's schedule was a tough one, as it was divided into two separate seasons, one in the fall and one in the spring. The spring season will be climinated next year, however, so that all matches can be played before the sectional.

During the fall schedule the Brunwere held without a win. Their first loss was to Muncie South, 6-1. They were beaten 7-0 by four successive team Muncie Central (twice), Marion, Bluffton, and Huntington. Their fall season then ended, as they were unable to do well in the sect onal

The spring schedule was somewhat different, as the Bruins won three of ten matches even though they lost two varsity players. The wins were over Madson Grant, 4-3, and two CIC foes El wood, 6-1, and Tipton, 4-3, Losses came at the hands of South Adams, 4-3, Bluff ton, 7-0, Huntington, 7-0, Peru, 7-0, Bur ex 1 3 Alexandr II and Will show 7-0.

Inexperienced track squad started

The young track team of Coach Mark Crain succeeded in winning just one of its dual meets this season.

The team, with only three seniors, began with a close one in which Bluffton slipped by the Bruins 60½-57½. Two more losses—Wabash, 103-15, and Elwood, 85-33—were posted before the Bruins finally broke into the win column by defeating Dunkirk 72-46. From there, however, things went downfull as the Bruins lost their next four dual meets—Delta, 72-45; Peru, 81-36; Tipton, 88-30; and Portland, 76-41.

During the season the Bruins also competed in a three-way meet with East brook and Alexandria, in which they placed third, and a four-way meet with Madison Grant, Messessinewa, and Bluffton in which the Bruins placed third, defeating Mississinewa.

In the CIC meet the Bruins beat out Alexandria and Elwood for sixth place. In the sectional, competing against 26 other teams, the Bruins failed to score.

Bruin golfers won CIC tournament

The Bruin golfers, under the coaching of Mr. Dan May, compiled a 5-7-1 record for dual meets as they lost six matches out of their first seven. The Bruins beat Mississinewa 6-4. Southern Wells 8-0, Wabash 6-4, and Tipton 5-3. Their losses were to New Castle 6-4. Elwood 14-1. Madison Grant 7-3, Portland 182 175. Eastbrook 6-4, and Bluffton 231-205. The tie match resulted when the Bruins faced South Adams, and ag in a 5-5 draw.

For the CIC meet Mr. Kenneth Ross supervised the team. The Bruins placed first in the tournament with a total score of 344, and Steve Morris wou medalist honors with a 75. Muncie Burris had beaten the Bruins but was forced to forfeit the trophy when an error on the score card was found

The Bruin baseball team under the guidance of coaches Jim Boyd and Bob Rickel showed Blackford County how the game should be played as it posted a winning slate.

While winning the majority of their games, the Bruins were unable to capture the sectional title which was the high point of the season. The Bruins entered the sectional with authority as they belted Eastbrook 10.0 in a five-inning game in which Dick Cook struck out 15 batters. Their bid for the second game fell short, however, and the Bruins bowed out to Mississinewa, 5 1 Salt was then rubbed into their wounds as Madison Grant, whom the Bruins had be the twice before, captured the sectional.

The Bruns then ended their season on a winning note by defeating all seven CIC foes and winning the conference title.

A new phase of the game was introduced to Blackford County this year as the Bruins played in three double headers. They were at their best in these six games and lost only one, splitting games with Kokomo Haworth.

seat gym—large enough to lure the Sotional Basketball Tournament back to the county. A top-notch football field also made the mouths of visiting coaches water. To supplement these advantages, a handy utility building—dubbed the "cleathouse"—became headquarters for outdoor sports.

But it was the youthful, talented stuff of 14 coaches, directed by Mr. John Carbone, that was largely responsible for the school's success in its eight interscholastic sports. The evidence of that success was in the trophy case.

By the year's end only one anticipated sport remained to be added—swimming. The huge, enticing pool was expected to be ready to leap into by mid-summer. That would make the BHS sports picture really complete.

Spirit, leadership and planning for the future described the 218 members of the Senior Class of 1969-1970, which included 84 seniors originally from Montpelier and 166 from Hartford City.

A new twist took place when plans were made for graduation ceremonies to be held in the Blackford stadium. Gowns were scarlet and the tassels were red, white, and black, the school colors.

Honor students with 95 percent average or above wore gold tassels, and Honor Society members were gold hoods.

Blue and gold were the colors chosen out of many different combinations to represent the Senior Class.

Juniors hope to get it done in '71

For every girl of the 1969-1970 Junior Class there were 1 16 boys, as shown in the class enrollment totaling 2.15 members—139 boys and 120 girls

These juniors through the operation of concessions stands at football and basketball games, earned money for financing "Romeo and Juliet," the 1969 1970 Junior Class Prom, the first at BHS. Starting early in the year, 13 committees were chosen to create the romantic atmosphere of old-time Italy

For the first time, school rings, as well as class rings, were chosen by the Junior Class. In the center of both rings was placed the school crest

The sophomores of '69-'70 were the end of a tradition. They were the last Blackfordians to have ever attended the consolidated schools of Hartford City and Montpelier. They were also, however, part of a new tradition—Blackford High School.

For example, the sophomores accepted their new challenge by selling $6,200 worth of magazines. They celebrated athletic victories, joined organizations, ordered rings, and became part of a new tradition.

They were a class represented well in almost every school activity. About 290 strong, they made up 22% of averaged honor rolls, 37% of Student Council. 30% of Band, 31% of Chorus, 29% of athletic teams, and 21% of BrulN-former staff. The sophomores started a promising tradition.

Teachers are many-sided

HOBBYISTS: Seeing almost eye to eye with Mr. Cahill is his Irish welfhound, Lindy. She's only a puppy!

HELPERS: Time and individual help are offered to English student Sherry Anderson by Mrs. Kerr.

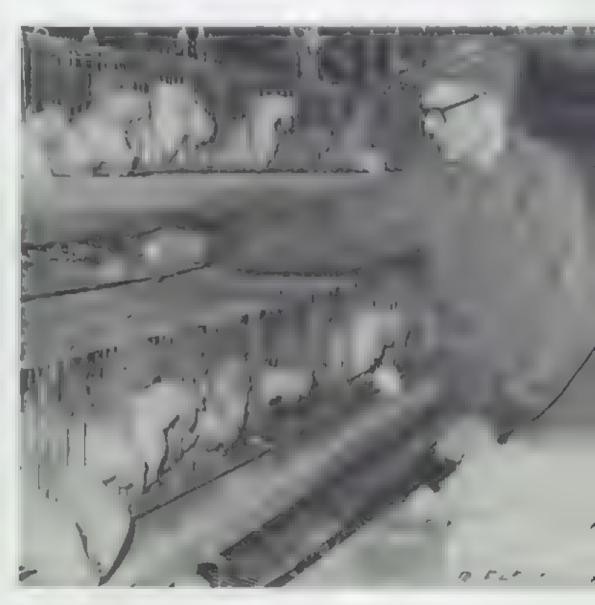

The average 1969-1970 teacher at Blackford High School, based on the 68-member instructional staff, was male, married, had two children, and had a Master's degree from Ball State University

More specifically, 42 of the 68 members were males, leaving only 26 females of which only nine men and six women were unmarried.

A total of 109 degrees from 25 colleges and universities have been acquired by the trachers

Leading with 29 Bachelor's degrees and exactly the same amount of Master's degrees is Ball State University. Indiana State University is second with nine Bachelors and two Masters. A total of 23 other institutions are also represented from various states.

Another generation of teachers is possible for, according to statistics of teachers' offspring, teacher-parents have a total of 70 children

"MOONLIGHTERS": Doing his own persion of "The Egg and P" is Mr. Said, who raised 2000 chickens in his after-school hours.

Thanks to them, 'twas like home

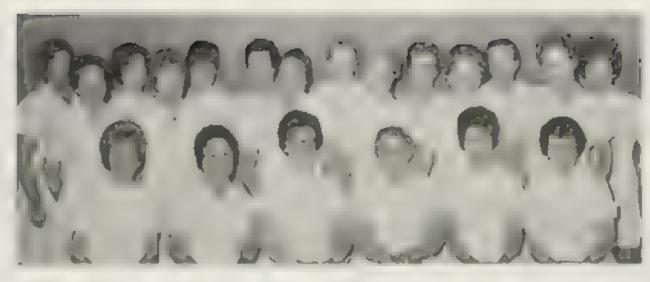

A mild form of integration hit the service roster as two women joined the custodial staff and 20 cooks took charge of the cafeteria.

The matrons' duties included cleaning the girls' rest rooms, library and cafeteria. The male segment of the staff, headed by Mr. Albert Cortwright, kept up the rest of the building.

The cooks, under the direction of manager Mrs. Moore and head cook Mrs. Beckley, prepared 1500-1600 hot lunches daily. During the holidays the ladies took a recess from the kitchen and held a Christmas party.

Bus drivers learned new routes, since they now carried a substantial number of town dwellers.

Mrs. Phyllis Erdman, school nurse, administered first aid, TB examinations and vision tests. She served as nurse for all 12 Blackford schools.

Mrs. Margaret McGeath. (Row 3) Mrs. Veda Moore (head cook), Mrs. Donna Godfrey, Mrs. Pat Vanderhut, Mrs. Ance Horton, Mrs. Doss Johnson, Mrs. Helen Buffenbarger, Mrs. Mat cella Gardner, Mrs. Dorls Cline Not protured: Mrs. Wilma Cark

New machinery provides easier methods of preparing meals. Slicing meat are Mrs. White sell and Mrs. Vanderbur, doing their hest to keep up with 1,100 appetites.

An enviable duty-pie cutting-was a "chare" for cooks Mrs. Andy Kline and Mrs. Iva Hell, who slived dozens of pies daily

The honor of being the first female members of the BHS custodial staff went to Mrs. Christina Montgomery and Mrs. Catherine Mearham

"Now this won't hart a bit," says Nurse Phyllis Erdman to Karen Murphy. All juniors went through the ordeal of TB tests.

Delivering hot lunches from cafeteria to grade schools was a chore as signed to Mr. Cecil Beeson and Mr. Fred Smith, custodians

There's always somebody who can't grasp a new idea Fortunately, there are a lot of other people.. those who get ideas, and those who listen to them and do something.. so that there's progress in our old world

Like a lot of American businesses, we've built our whole company on new ideas. Like the total-electric home, and the alf-electric school, and reducing the cost of our product while everyone else was raising theirs

A lot of our ideas came to us from young people who joined our company, and from others outside, in other industries. But the important thing is what we did with those ideas. And what we hope to do with more that come to us in the future

Business needs ideas. Got any?

'Experience is an arch wherethrough

Pering into the factor rows sensors that a transfer to mite experiences it olives

gleams that UNTRAVELED WORLD'

Exploring this new world, we sampled the best it had to offer and helped make its beginning an auspicious one.

The years climax came at graduation. Commencement—for seniors—marked their entrance into the adult world. Now they face other problems the rigors of college or military life, marriage, the responsibility of earning their own living

For underclassmen, the challenge also continues: in years to come they must nurture a budding school spirit and continue the initial winning tradition

Beginning its second year, BHS still has many untapped resources. It holds two more opportunities for exploration and discovery, awaiting the pioneer who will accept the challenge

Top: Diamonds sprouted on vany girls' hands sentring future plans that centered around a home and tames. Rottom: Bel in transing into adult life, graduates sometimes had a feeling of alements.

EFLECTIONS staff members adopted a new religion for the year. The first commandment was "Meet your deadlines," and our souls could be saved only by getting this book out on time. August 1 was the fatal day, and after many thankful prayers, we can go back to normal life.

Many people helped us compile the first edition of Reflections. The color print on page 3 was made from a negative courtesy of NASA. Thanks are due to Mr. Dick Kennard, our publisher representative, and Newsfoto Yearbooks. Senior pictures and club pictures were taken by Rex Studio; underclass pictures by Reid Studio.

Student Council alternates, serving as homeroom sales representatives, helped sell over 900 subscriptions. BrulNformer staff members took time off between issues to type, index and sell ads. The school administration cooperated in the setting up—and sometimes retaking—of pictures.

Our head "night owl," Mr. Henderson, no doubt spent the most hours in the office; his patience, persistence, and professional help were invaluable.

Joy
